ENTIRE GROUP OF GIRL SCOUT LEADERS FOLLOWS MRS. COOTE IN QUITTING ORGANIZATION

GYL Scout activities in Carmel were in turmoil this week following the resignation of Mrs. Ralph A. Coote, peninsula Scout commissioner, and all active Carmel Scout workers. A telegram was dispatched to regional Scout headquarters in San Francisco Wednesday, protesting the "present situation" in Carmel, supporting the resignation of Mrs. Coote, and endorsing her policies. The wire was signed by the following members of the Carmel district: Miss Clara G. Hinds, commissioner for Carmel; Mrs. T. W. Van Ess, Mrs. James Gillingham, Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, Mrs. William Sloan Coffin, Mrs. Ernest Bixler, Miss Ruth P. Huntington, Mrs. Frank Townsend, Mrs. G. H. Burnette, Mrs. Millard Klein, Mrs. Frank Hatton and Mrs. Ernest Morehouse. This represents 100 per cent of the personnel now active in Girl Scouting in Carmel district. All resignations were to take effect immediately except those of troop leaders, who will complete the school year with the girls, resigning as of June 5.

Rumors have been current in Carmel for the past half year that Mrs. Coote was to be "forced out" as district commissioner. She was elected to the post in February, 1935, without solicitation on her part, because 15 years active experience in Scout leadership gave her recognition as the best qualified woman on the peninsula for the position. In the face of considerable dissension from outside the Scout organization, she continued as commissioner because

Big Turnout Expected Tonight at Sunset for Liquor Mass Meeting

ESIDENTS of Carmel and its environs are invited to attend a mass meeting at Sunset auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock to discuss the liquor situation as it affects Carmel, and to seek a remedy under the present law or proposed changes in liquor control measures. State Controller Ray L. Riley will be the keynote speaker, and is expected to give a full explanation of the present rights of communities in regard to liquor sales, and to discuss possible remedial measures.

Mayor Everett Smith will open the meeting and explain its purpose. James Thoburn, councilman and former mayor, will preside as chairman. After Mr. Riley's talk, the meeting will be open for questions from the floor, or comment on the present situation. Speeches from the floor will be strictly limited to three minutes, in order to give opportunity for as many people as possible to be heard.

The meeting has been arranged by members of the council and a group of interested citizens as a result of what is considered locally as a breach of faith on the part of the State Board of Equalization, which has the power to give or withhold liquor licenses. When some agitation against on sale liquor licenses began in Carmel about a year ago, attaches of the Board of Equalization came here to confer with city officials. It was stated at that time that if Carmel would accept a certain limited number of on-sale liquor licenses without protest, the board would reciprocate by giving out no more than that number of licenses. Believing that that was a semi-official promise, no further action was taken until this spring, when city officials were alarmed at the growing number of applications for on-sale licenses. Protests against the granting of certain licenses were sent to the state board by the city council, the chief of police and numerous citizens. The board held up the licenses until after a public hearing at Salinas, when a representative of the board gave Carmel citizens short shrift, indicated that their protests were not of a character which the board cared to heed. The protested licenses were all granted. Since that time, however, public sentiment has been sufficiently vociferous that numerous additional applicants for liquor licenses have either withdrawn "notices of intention" to apply for licenses or have decided against taking this preliminary step.

Active in the current agitation against wholesale granting of liquor licenses are many Carmel citizens who are not personally dry, but who

Finder of Purse Takes Currency, Throws Bag Away

A small brown zipper bag, containing $25 in currency, was picked up, probably at the post office last week-end, its contents removed, and the bag was thrown away near the corner of Seventh and Dolores, where it was found and returned to the owner. The owner of the purse and the money is a widow with two small children to support. The $25 was destined to pay household bills. If the money is returned either to the police department or to the office of The Pine Cone, no questions will be asked. If the finder knew just how much that $25 means to the woman who lost it, it is believed that it would be returned at once.

STONE MASON FINED

A fine of $50 was imposed upon James Chappell, stone mason, by Police Judge George L. Wood at a hearing on Monday morning. Chappell was arrested Sunday on a charge of public intoxication.

Three's a Crowd — School Trustee Election Brings Out Third Candidate for Office

A SURPRISE was injected into the campaign for the election of one member to the Sunset school board of trustees on June 5, and the intimation of a hot contest was given with the announcement this week that Mrs. Ethel P. Young of Pebble Beach has entered the race. Mrs. Young had previously announced that she would not be a candidate, after persistent rumors that she was considering running. The surprise was in the sudden interest displayed by Mrs. Young in affairs of Sunset school, which had not previously been included in her sphere of activities.

Friends of Sunset school, who are forming a solid organization behind the candidacy of Donald Hale, long-time resident of Carmel, are reported not to look with favor on Mrs. Young's candidacy. It is felt that parents of Sunset pupils and Carmel residents would have insufficient representation on the board if Mrs. Young were elected.

The hold-over members of the board are Mrs. Louis Levinson and A. G. E. Hanke; Mrs. Levinson, a resident of Carmel and mother of two boys now in the school, long an active worker for the school, in the P-T-A and on the board of trustees; Mr. Hanke, a resident of Hatton Fields, representative on the board of the point of view of the taxpayer without children in the school. Mr. Hale, living in Carmel, having children in the school, and in touch with school affairs and with other parents of school children, is felt to be a more broadly representative candidate than Mrs. Young. Another factor widely discussed is the advisability of having two men on the board of three rather than two women.

"Dark horse" in the campaign is Miss Alma Kuehl, former Berkeley school teacher, resident of Carmel for about six months, who has stepped into the cross-fire between strongly opposed factions.

tion was held at which Mrs. Hudgins and Mrs. Stanton were elected to important posts on the Carmel committee. When other Carmel Scout leaders heard of this, considerable protest was voiced, and it was suggested to Mrs. Hudgins and Mrs. Stanton that they resign in the interest of harmony. The objection was said to be based on the fact that neither had shown sufficient cooperation to warrant their choice for high executive posts.

A second committee slate was put up, signed by active Scout leaders as an indication of their approval. The names of Mrs. Hudgins and Mrs. Stanton were not included. On this slate were Miss Clara G. Hinds as

Spy In Carmel, Alleges Paper

Copies of "Western Worker," San Francisco organ of the Communist party, were circulated in Carmel yesterday, carrying a sensational story to the effect that Captain Charles Sharkey, representing himself here as a retired seaman, wrestler and writer engaged in writing his life story, is in reality one Captain Bakcsy, alias "Captain X," labor spy, here in the employ of the San Francisco Waterfront Employers' association. Sharkey came here at the end of last summer and leased the D. W. Call house on Scenic Drive, which, according to Western Worker, has been electrified with an elaborate dictaphone and buzzer system, the receiving set in a house four doors away, rented in the name of one Mrs. O'Neill.

Purpose of Sharkey's mission here was said to be to prove that "money from Moscow" found its way to Harry Bridges in San Francisco, through Carmel radical sympathizers, Carmel radicals, to whom Sharkey represented himself as an ardent labor sympathizer; said that the Western Worker's story was true, but incomplete. Clumsy efforts to "frame" them or elicit damaging statements first convinced them that Sharkey was not what he represented himself to be.

According to Ella Winter, at a Christmas party at the Sharkey house, she and other guests were shown a collection of "small firearms" which may have been sub-machine guns, and she and several others were urged to take them in their hands. As Miss Winter is afraid of guns, she said she refused to handle one. Mr. Sharkey then remarked in a loud voice to her, "Won't these guns be wonderful when we have the revolution?" Miss Winter said her reply was "Oh, nuts!" or words to that effect. Miss Winter said that she has been informed that Sharkey attempted to convince listeners at the receiving end of the dictaphone that it was she, Miss Winter, who had made the remark, but that the tone was so unmistakably masculine that the effort was unsuccessful.

Sharkey left Carmel several weeks ago, and is not believed to be here at present. The telephone at his residence has been disconnected.

Small Model of Carmel Mission Available to City Through WPA

CARMEL will have the opportunity "ing" resolution, was one permitting to become the owner of a small model of Carmel mission, made the state, relative to the allocation strictly to scale and of materials and spending of $3640.40, state gasoline tax funds, to be used in oiling Carmel's chief improved thoroughfares.

Nelly Montague, art project supervisor, told the council at its meeting Wednesday evening. The model is now being made with the federal government as sponsor, but if Carmel wishes to donate between $35 and $50 to cover the cost of materials, $82 on the $100 he posted a year ago, the model can be retained locally, she said. The council will inspect the Snack and make its decision later.

The council authorized Mayor Smith to accept, on behalf of the city, title to the firehouse site on Sixth street, and another "authoriz-

Mrs. Clay Miller Called By Death

Mrs. Clay Miller, of Palo Alto, wife of the past president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, died at Stanford hospital May 12 from pneumonia, contracted only a few days before. She is survived by two sons, Clay Miller Jr., and Norman W. Miller.

Mrs. Miller had many friends in Carmel, as for a number of years she and her family came down to spend the summers in their home on San Antonio next to the Lincoln Steffens residence.

pealed the Snack to close as a restaurant, therefore the closing was voluntary, therefore the Snack is not entitled to a refund. Police Chief Robert Norton has not yet received an answer from the council on his question of what action to take when the Snack applies for a new restaurant license. Some months ago he was instructed by a resolution of the council not again to issue a restaurant license to the Snack on the grounds that it is not a safe place for public gatherings, having only one exit, up a flight of stairs.

To Miss Kellogg, as commissioner of health and safety, the council gave permission to hire an attendant to keep the beach clean during the summer, at a salary not to exceed $50 monthly. Whether to give the attendant police power also was left undecided. Beach caretakers in the past have so felt the prestige of their position after receiving a star as to be unable to stoop over to pick up scraps of paper, as Mayor Smith put it. The ordinance regulating bus and taxi parking on Ocean avenue passed second reading, and a letter from Joe Olivera, requesting permission to park his taxi on Ocean, was laid over for further consideration.

At the request of Mrs. Montague for two council members to serve on the civic art project committee, Mayor Smith appointed Miss Kellogg and Councilman Thoburn.

Visitors' Day at Monterey H. S.

Today, May 22, at Monterey high school, is Visitors' Day. The purpose of this day is to welcome the incoming freshmen. The Girls' League for four years has welcomed the girls, but this year, because of the increase in enrollment, the boys were also invited.

There was an entertainment program with selections from the Boys' Glee Club and the orchestra. Superintendent J. R. McKillop, principal; E. R. Morehead, and Gertrude E. Rendoff, dean of girls, gave welcoming speeches. At noon there was a dance with music furnished by the high school.

The sub-chairmen from Carmel and Carmel Valley are Peggy Crane, Bud Brownell and Earle Dorrance, and for Big Star Alleen Jacks and Frank Trotter.

The boy's arm was set by Dr. Walter L. Tebby, and he received further treatment at the Community hospital.

"Growing Pains," Grove Student Play, Enthusiastically Received

A N ideal play for high school-age household, extricated himself from thespians, Aurantia Rouverol's "Growing Pains" was presented by a competent cast as the senior class play of Pacific Grove high school, at the high school auditorium last Friday evening. Gordon E. Knoles was the director. Whereas most amateur adult plays have a way of getting off to a flying start and then limping badly in the third act, as if it had suffered from lack of a sufficient rehearsal, the Pacific Grove seniors wavered a bit in the first act, found solid ground under their feet and showed progressive improvement in the succeeding acts, indicating that the play had been well and solidly prepared.

For most of the youngsters in the cast, all required was that they should "act natural" in circumstances fairly typical of their own lives, and they succeeded well in portraying a group of carefree youngsters. A rather stiffer assignment was given Charles Fogg and Audrey Colburn, who portrayed the parents of two youngsters caught in the complications of adolescent adjustment to adult social situations. The two young people filled these roles with mature composure.

Verne Williams, as the son of the school crowd by the ears, and Dorothy Rising did a good comedy-character bit, with effective pantomime, as the unpopular girl who hangs wistfully on the outskirts of the gay young things' good times. Bill Crowley had a brief but effective appearance as a hard-boiled traffic cop. Barbara Ansell was the mother of the unpopular child, bound to see justice done by her young.

Others in the large and well-trained cast were: Doris Barnard, Vernon Baxter, Bill McLean, Edgar Shaffer, Kenneth Ward, Louis Fitzsimmons, Eldred Bayles, Frances Hodges, Frances Parker, Charleen Colvin, Patricia Windsor and Jean Rogers.

All action transpired in the patio of the McIntyre home, and a notably attractive stage-set presented a typical California out-door living room. Good lighting effects enhanced the picture. The production staff included Bob Humphries, Ray Kopp, Bill Davenport, Bill Van Ess, Mildred Cashin, Elsie Brotherton, Alice Mayberry and Jean Rogers. The high school orchestra, directed by J. F. O'Hanlon, provided entr'acte music.

Robin Hood to Be Given Today

In social studies this year the seventh grade has made a complete study of the customs and habits of the English people. As a part of this work, this afternoon at 1:40 o'clock in the Sunset school auditorium, the seventh grade will present "Robin Hood." This play is an adaptation of the old Robin Hood tales with a few new characters introduced. Incidental music consists of old English folksongs and country dances of the Robin Hood period.

The characters and the children who play them are: Robin Hood, Bill Coffin; Little John, Hugh Dormody; Will Scarlet, Orville Jones; Alan-A-Dale, Harold Johnson; Midge the Miller, Bobby Frolli; Tim the Tinker, Golden Whitman; Friar Tuck, Dick Williams; King Richard of the Lion Heart, Monty Stearns; Two Friars, King Richard's men in disguise, Peter Elliott III and Edward Ricketts; a blind beggar, George Goessler; a deaf beggar, Arthur Strasburger; Dame Dale, wife of Alan-A-Dale, Mary Jane Uzzell; two daughters of Dame and Alan-A-Dale, Harriet Hatton and Joyce Thompson; Maid Marian, Jacqueline Klein; dancers, Ann Whitman, Alice Vidoroni and Donna Hodges.

Jack Jones of Modesto was a commercial in Carmel yesterday.

Bach Cantata Loaned for Summer Festival

Not only is music coming to the Bach Festival chorus from Philadelphia and from private libraries, but some 40 copies of the immortally lovely "Jesus, Priceless Treasure," with full orchestration have been sent down from the College of the Pacific through the courtesy of John G. Elliott of the music department. The work has been in rehearsal for two weeks under the direction of Bernard Callery, the assistant supervisor of the Federal music project, who is very generously taking charge of rehearsals until the arrival of Sascha Jacobinoff. The festival chorus meets every Monday evening in the Sunset

Choir practicing from 8 to 10.

An interesting ramification is that the Bach cantata actually was loaned through Paul Taylor, Carmel boy who plays trumpet in the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra when he is home. Paul is a student of the music department of the College of the Pacific and assisted in the orchestration of the cantata which will be used for the performance.

Carl Wisser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wisser of Carmel valley, has been in the Community hospital for several days.

Mrs. Rendtorff Speaks Before Study Group

Mrs. Karl G. Rendtorff of Carmel was the speaker at a meeting of the government and foreign policy study group of the League of Women Voters, meeting Tuesday afternoon at Mission Inn, Monterey. "Cultural Aspects of a Dictatorship" was the topic discussed by Mrs. Rendtorff. She stressed the fact that cultural stagnation has been the inevitable concomitant of dictatorships throughout history.

This study group has been recently renamed and was formerly called "government and international cooperation."

At the conclusion of the program, former presidents of the P-T. A. still living on the peninsula, Mrs. Schoeninger, the first president, Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, Mrs. Hurd Comstock and Mrs. E. A. H. Watson, were introduced from the stage, together with Miss Clara Kellogg, president this year, and Mrs. William Frolly, next year's president, who was unanimously elected at Tuesday's meeting. On the candles of a beautiful white birthday cake, Mrs. Schoeninger "wished" for the continued growth and success of the P-T. A., and the cake was then cut and distributed.

Other officers, elected by acclaim, in addition to Mrs. Frolly are Mrs. Howard Clark, vice president; Mrs. D. A. Pelton, treasurer; Mrs. E. A. H. Watson, corresponding secretary, and Miss Berne Riley, recording secretary. Miss Kellogg presided at a brief business meeting preceding the program, announcing the annual "summer round up" of children who will enter school next year, for next Tuesday, at 9:30 in the school gymnasium, when Dr. John Gray will examine them; and the P-T. Reports were heard from the church school and the woman's society. Rev. Homer S. Bodley gave a brief report of church activities during his first three months here, and outlined plans for the autumn.

Musical numbers were given by a vocal quartet consisting of Everett Smith, Andrew Sessink, Miles Bain and Rev. Bodley.

Whitney's Takes On Colorful Hue

Effective use of bright yet delicate color has transformed the interior of Whitney's, popular old-time Carmel restaurant, reopened this week after extensive remodeling, and with the added attraction of a small cocktail bar. The former "front room" of Whitney's is completely unrecognizable. Gone are the booths, soda fountain and candy counter. In their place are the small brass-railed bar, and around the walls comfortable deep benches with denim-covered cushions, small knotty-pine trestle tables.

Cerise doors, with floors, lower wall panelings and the bar itself painted a pale sky-blue, a white ceiling and the upper half of the walls finished with knotty pine forms an attractive color combination, neat but not nearly as gaudy as it sounds. The cerise and the blue are of the same color value, so that they blend scrumptiously. Inset in the knotty pine walls are a series of amusing caricatures by Phil Nesbitt, which will undoubtedly contribute to the fame of the establishment.

Complete remodeling of the building's exterior has already led to much favorable comment around town. Emphasized are small-paned bow-windows, white paint, and the same luscious cerise for doors and windows that is used with such telling effect in the interior. Whitney's opened Wednesday after being closed several weeks for remodeling.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bensberg spent several days in San Francisco early this week.

Scouts to Summer Camp on June 14

Camp Wing, summer camp for Boy Scouts of the Monterey Bay Area, will open this year on Sunday, June 14, and will be open for four weeks, until July 12. A complete program of summer camp activities with instruction in all forms of Scoutcraft is planned, under the leadership of competent executives. Pack trips, hikes, overnight camps, fishing and night scouting, night and day scout games, campfires, stunts, singing and field days are among the routine events. Work will be offered in life-saving, pioneering, first aid, signaling, mapping, all Scoutcraft and merit-badge subjects. Red Cross instructors will give swimming and life-saving instruction. The old swimming pool at the camp site will be used, with new features added. Handicraft work in wood and leather will be offered.

In addition to troop leaders, there will be in residence a camp director, a medical director, life-saving instructors, cook, quartermaster, campcraft instructor and camp counselors. Among camp facilities will be a library, a well-equipped hospital with medical officer in charge, camp store with fresh milk, eggs, butter, vegetables and other supplies, good water, modern sanitary facilities. To avoid interference with the scout program, visitors will be limited to Sundays and holidays.

TO HONOR ASILOMAR MANAGEMENT TUESDAY

The Carmel Business Association will cooperate with the Chambers of Commerce of Monterey and Pacific Grove in giving a dinner and dance next Tuesday night to honor the new management at Asilomar. The dinner will be served at 6:45 p.m., and will be followed by dancing, with card games for those who prefer them.

Needles

After staying at the Monterey Peninsula country club for two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Shaw left Thursday for Falmouth, on Cape Cod, where Mr. Shaw will manage the summer theater group.

At the state Exchange club convention in Paso Robles last week-end, J. L. Schroeder was re-elected treasurer of the state organization, without opposition.

* * *

After spending the winter in Pebble Beach as is their custom, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vester will leave next week for their home in New York.

* * *

Mrs. Laura Grey is expecting to move soon from her Monte Verde home to her new California farmhouse in Hatton Fields.

* * *

Mrs. Thomas W. Huntington arrived from San Francisco yesterday to spend a week with Mrs. Adam Darling.

* * *

After an absence of two weeks, during which she painted portraits of several well-known people, Florence Lockwood returned this week from Los Angeles.

* * *

Paul Flanders has landed in New York following a world cruise. Mrs. Flanders joined him in the east, and they are expected at their home here in a week or ten days.

MISSIONARY MEETING

Carmel Missionary Society will hold its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at All Saints church. Mrs. Vera Peck Millis will discuss the Delta Cooperative farm in Mississippi, and a report will be given on the "World Movement for Christianity."

Carmel Is Given Spring Cleaning

Carmel city improvements are forging ahead this week with the usual large and small jobs occupying the time of Street Superintendent Bill Askew and his men. Spring cleaning is the order of the day, and Carmel is being polished and shined for the summer. Not to be outdone by the city, the water company is doing its share by laying new water pipe down Ocean avenue.

All stop signs and traffic buttons are being cleaned and repainted, as are the orange-colored stripes around corners and in no-parking areas.

Holes in the pavement have always been a major difficulty, and all drivers are blessing the street department for filling so many of them. Carmel's famous unplanned ditches, dug across many streets by the winter rains, are being filled with gravel and oil, and pedestrians who walk at night are again able to get around without wondering where their next step is going to take them.

Many streets are being watered regularly now that the dust is beginning to fly, and this work will be kept up all summer.

The water company crew, with its dazzling silver-painted air compressor, is steadily digging a ditch in Ocean avenue, laying new water pipe and filling up the ditch as they go. The new pipe will provide much greater pressure in the hydrants, and will prove a great help to firemen when and if there is a fire in the business section, it is said. In the last few days the men have progressed rapidly, and it won't be long before they are through. The new pipe will probably clear up most of the rusty water problem that has been bothering many residents lately, it is believed.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Cockburn visited Yosemite last week.

Garden Section Tour on May 28

The garden section of the Woman's club held the first of its summer tours on May 14, and has planned the second for next Thursday, May 28, when Pebble Beach gardens will be visited. The tour is open only to members of the section and their house guests. Transportation will be arranged for those who do not have cars, and those who desire accommodations may phone Miss Anne Grant, 621-W. A fee of 25 cents will be charged each passenger, to defray transportation expenses. The caravan of cars will assemble for a prompt 10 o'clock start, at the corner of Mission and the park, opposite the Old Homestead restaurant.

Six cars met at this corner for the first pilgrimage, last week. Eight Carmel gardens, then at the height of their bloom, were visited. At the home of Miss Florence K. Paul, Dolores and Second, section members admired a fine display of cinerarias. A gorgeous display of climbing and bush roses was the center of interest at the home of Mrs. William V. Bryan, Torres and Eighth. Two other gardens were visited in the same neighborhood, that of Mrs. May W. Gift, who has magnificent delphiniums, and that of the Misses Gau, where the garden as a whole presented a charming picture of spring bloom.

Carmel members of the House of Young Churchmen who helped entertain the visitors were Mary Hobson, Sheila Thompson, Joyce Uzzell, Margaret Dorrance, Joyce Yocom, Barbara Haasis, Jane and Betty Haskell, Jane Millis, Pat Hall, Homer Levinson, Joe McElroy, and Earle Dorrance. Also guests at the picnic were Mrs. Fred Cushman and her daughter Ellen, of Cleveland, and Mrs. William Palmer Lucas, of San Francisco.

Church Group on Visit to Carmel

Visiting Carmel last week-end were 25 members of the Cranmer club, an Episcopal club for young churchgoers at the University of California. Led by Miss Anne Gammick and Dr. Sturgis Lee Riddle, chaplain at the university, the group came down for a two-day conference and vacation. Sunday morning they attended All Saints church, where many of them sang in the choir and Dr. Riddle led the services. A picnic was given on the beach Saturday night for the local branch of the House of Young Churchmen, another Episcopal club for young people between the ages of 14 and 25.

Carmel members of the House of Young Churchmen who helped entertain the visitors were Mary Hobson, Sheila Thompson, Joyce Uzzell, Margaret Dorrance, Joyce Yocom, Barbara Haasis, Jane and Betty Haskell, Jane Millis, Pat Hall, Homer Levinson, Joe McElroy, and Earle Dorrance. Also guests at the picnic were Mrs. Fred Cushman and her daughter Ellen, of Cleveland, and Mrs. William Palmer Lucas, of San Francisco.

Del Monte Dairy Will Open on Dolores Next Thursday

RUSHING preparations for a formal opening next Thursday, the Del Monte Dairy, in business on the peninsula for the past 42 years, is establishing in El Paseo at Seventh and Dolores, an unusually attractive and completely modern fountain, lunchroom and shop for dairy products. Extensive alterations have been in progress for several weeks, during which the partition has been removed from between the two corner shops of El Paseo, making one large, light and cheerful room. The two fireplaces of the old rooms, back to back, were left undisturbed in the center of the room and form the central motif for an unusual decorative scheme.

Two "love seat" groupings will be arranged at each fire place, each consisting of two large, cushioned arm chairs, arranged vis à vis, with a small end table between, a casual and comfortable setting in which to sip a milk-shake. All furniture in the new shop is made to order; knotty pine stained dark and "antiqued." The main counter is in an unusual Z shape, crossing the corner shop from south to north, along the old line the counter.

The interior walls have been refinshed in a soft neutral tone, and the side windows will be hung with harmonizing drapes, leaving the large arched windows along the street open to the sun. The cement floor has been waxed and casually adorned with russet sisal scatter rugs from India.

All fountain equipment is in stain-

Students Busy In Tennis and Golf

Spencer Kern is to play in the C. C. A. L. singles tennis tournament, the only player competing from Monterey High.

On May 16 there was a doubles tournament at Watsonville in which Spencer Kern and Thomas Gee lost 6-3, 2-6, 6-0. The whole tournament was won by Santa Cruz.

The Monterey high golf team played the Stanford freshmen at Stanford recently. Considering the hard opposition the Monterey team did some fine playing. Warner Keeley and Bud Brownell as partners won 2½ points, John Burns and Harvey Breaux won 2½, and Dick Shaw, who had to play two people, lost, 0-3. As a result of this playing there was a tie, with Monterey 4½ and Stanford 4½. The Stanford Fresh golfers have been beaten only once by high school students and considering this, the Monterey team made a creditable showing.

"Dark Angel" at Filmarc Tonight

The Filmarc this week presents notable pair. Gay, tuneful and amusing, with an excellent supporting cast headed by Alice Brady and Edward Everett Horton, the picture is as fresh and satisfying as ever.

Tonight's feature is "Dark Angel," with Fredric March, Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall in a beautifully balanced star combination. The film is one of this season's hits and is rated as one of the best-written screen dramas of several seasons.

Tomorrow brings a "last chance showing" of the famous Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers musical, "The Gay Divorcee," still regarded as the best of all the films made by this Thursday only.

Sunday night's program presents both the above features in a double bill, leading off with "Dark Angel," which will also be shown at Sunday's matinee.

The foreign picture next week will be a delightful French musical with English dialogue titles, "Mirage de Paris." It will be shown Wednesday and Thursday, with matinee on

Proposed Reduction In Telephone Rates May Mean Saving to Carmel

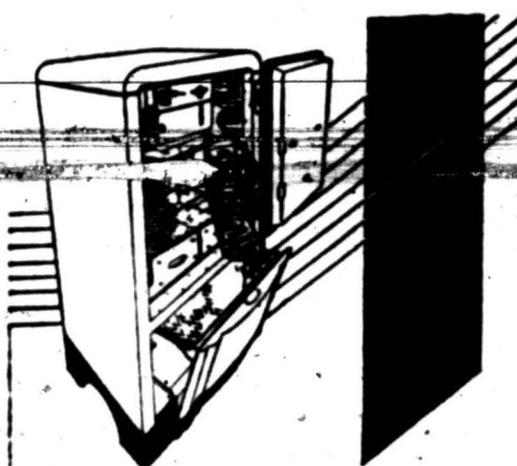

N. R. POWLEY, president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company has advised the California Railroad Commission in accepting its recent order reducing rates in the Los Angeles Exchange, that the company would, subject to the approval of the commission, voluntarily reduce its "hand set" rate on the peninsula, to become effective with the bills issued on and after June 1.

In explaining the proposed reductions as they would affect telephone users here, President Powley said:

"We propose to eliminate the $1 installation and 10 cents a month charge for cords over six feet, and apply installation charge of $1 for cords over six feet but not exceeding 13 feet."

"The hand set rate for all exchanges is reduced from 25 cents a month to 15 cents a month, with the provision that the charge will be eliminated after the customer has had this service for 18 months and is to be eliminated at once for customers who have now had this service for 18 months or more. We look forward, ultimately, to the complete elimination of this additional charge, but due to the pronounced effect upon plant changes and necessary rate level considerations, it is not possible at this time to eliminate the charge entirely."

"We desire to promote the welfare of every community we serve and we fully realize the important part the telephone plays in the social, industrial and commercial life. While it is not possible for us to reduce our exchange rate schedules throughout the state we are, however, now reviewing our long distance rate schedule and we are hopeful of working out rate adjustments which will be of decided benefit to all the communities throughout the state. We are endeavoring to arrive at a tariff which will meet the viewpoint of the various cities which raised certain inquiries in connection with the long distance rate schedule adjustments which we presented to the commission in Janu-

AUTHOR H. A. OVERSTREET PAYS FLYING VISIT TO CARMEL

PROFESSOR Harry Allen Overstreet of New York City, brother of Carmel's Will Overstreet, paid a flying visit to the peninsula Tuesday. On six months' leave of absence from the College of the City of New York, where he is head of the department of philosophy and psychology, and from his duties as lecturer for the New School for Social Research, he came west for a short vacation and is making his headquarters at Geyserville, where his wife, Bonaro Wilkinson, the poet, has relatives. The California vacation is limited because Prof. Overstreet is on leave to write another book, and he finds the natural beauties of California too distracting for hard work. In Carmel he called on his brother Will and his niece, Phyllis Appleton, and visited Sunset school. He pronounced the art work of the pupils there extraordinary.

"I have seen many interesting examples of children's art work," said the eminent educator, "but none in man Behavior"; "About Ourselves: which there was such a remarkable blend of good sound technique, and unrestrained upbubbling of childish humor and imagination. The exhibit does not have the stamp of the instructor's 'style' or personality, but is completely diverse and individualistic. I should say that Sunset school is an example of 'progressive education' at its best, with evidence of good work habits and wise discipline, not the untrammeled 'self-expression' which in the experimental days of 'progressive education' led to sloppy work."

Prof. Overstreet is one of California's gifts to Manhattan. He was born in San Francisco, in 1875, according to Who's Who. The date may be either a fly speck or a misprint, as the professor looks a well-preserved 45; tall, well-built, with a good, strong face, smooth brown hair and tranquil, kindly blue eyes behind gold-rimmed spectacles. The professor has written a number of books in the field of popular psychology and philosophy designed to guide the average person to happiness and a satisfying way of life. His own personality, vital, magnetic, with evidence of a quiet, rich sense of humor and a zestful adjustment to life, indicates that he has taken some leaves out of his own book.

Adult education, of which the New School for Social Research is a shining example, is his major interest. This, he said, is not a movement which has spread out from educational centers, but has sprung up spontaneously, all over the country, and has made notable progress during the depression, largely due to the need many people have felt for better understanding of economics, sociology and political economy.

"A few years ago, adult education was regarded as an opportunity for the educationally underprivileged to mend gaps in their schooling," said Prof. Overstreet. "Today, education is seen as a continuing process. The body of educational material is changing too rapidly today for anyone to feel that his education is finished because he has a diploma or a degree."

He described the enticing advantages of the New School for Social Research, supported by private endowment and students' fees, offering a multitude of subjects geared to the adult mind and individual aptitudes, until he had his auditors asquirm with envy. Then he admitted that he himself had been consumed with envy for us, living amid the enchanting beauty of the Monterey peninsula, and just wanted to show that the great city has something to offer, too!

A graduate of University of California and of Oxford, Prof. Overstreet was an instructor and associate professor of philosophy at U. C. for ten years, before going to the College of the City of New York in 1911. Since 1925 he has written five books which have been best-sellers; as well as numerous monographs and scientific papers. He has a gift for attractive titles: "Influencing Hurehearsals that such as Mr. Kubelik and his son choose Carmel for a summer home.

Dene Denny reports that daily telephone messages come from weekend visitors as to whether Mr. Kubelik is to be presented in concert and when.

Those who are planning to take cottages during summer months desire to plan their stay so as to take in Mr. Kubelik's concert and the Bach Festival.

Kubelik to Play Here on June 13

In response to repeated requests, the Denny-Watrous Management announces that it has arranged to present the world-famous Jan Kubelik, violinist, in recital in the Sunset school auditorium Saturday evening, June 13.

Carmel rejoices that among its summer visitors is one so distinguished as the celebrated violinist, and has renewed confidence in the prophecy that the village by the sea will become one of the music centers of the country. It is a tribute to musical activities of previous summers, which include the Bach Festival, and the chamber music concerts and open

*cook as you light—
ELECTRICALLY*

How would you like to simplify your cooking just as electricity has modernized and simplified your lighting?

Now you can cook with heat that is measured with the accuracy of electricity. At the snap of a switch an electric range produces heat that is swift as electricity, clean as electric light. Electric cookery too, is kind to you and your kitchen, your time and your pocketbook.

Come in and learn about the one-step meat cookery that saves time and gives juicier and better roasts; how one-step baking, starting with a cold oven means certainty of success time after time and how sauces, puddings and icings can be prepared without the use of a double-boiler.

You can purchase a beautiful automatic electric range for as little as $95 with convenient monthly payments.

STEPPING ON THE STARTER puts over 100 metal parts inside your motor into immediate action. This means serious wear—unless your oil flows instantly!

SPEED requires a "TOUGH" oil for high heat. Either "tough" or fast-flowing oils are easy to make. The problem is to combine both qualities in the same oil.

3 Miles a Minute can cause Less wear than starting your engine just once!

Here's a new fast-flowing oil that reduces engine repair bills up to 50%...

TERRIFIC motor heat at 180 miles an hour... is hard enough on an engine!

But starting your engine just once can be a lot more damaging.

When you step on your starter, over 100 moving parts are rubbing together.

That calls for plenty of oil on every part. If it isn't fast-flowing, some parts are unoiled for a few moments. No wonder 3/4ths of engine wear is caused by starting!

To cut this excessive wear, Shell, at a cost of $3,000,000, has perfected a new type of oil.

Golden Shell is FAST-FLOWING and yet TOUGH. Engineers and oil technicians call the process behind it the biggest advance in oil refining in the last 25 years.

Drive into your neighborhood Shell station today and learn how Golden Shell can cut your engine repair costs 50%.

"Soul and Body" Is Lesson-Sermon Topic

In all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, May 24, on the subject "Soul and Body."

The Golden Text will be: "Dearly beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul" (I Peter 2: 11). Bible selections will include the following passage from Isaiah 45: 5, 10-12, 13: "I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: ... Woe unto him that saith unto his the woman, What hast thou brought forth? Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: ... I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways: ..."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "Identity is the reflection of Spirit, the reflection of multifarious forms of the living Principle, Love. ... Man is idea, the image of Love; he is not physique" (pp. 477, 475).

Dance Program of June Delight and Pupils Proves Major Event

A DANCE program by June Delight and her pupils proved to be an event of major importance last Saturday evening, with Sunset auditorium filled to capacity by an appreciative audience, including many who were neither parents nor acquaintances of the young dancers. The opportunity to see Miss Delight dance undoubtedly accounted in part for the record turn-out, but the contribution of the youngsters themselves was well worth seeing.

Appearing only two or three years older than her own eldest daughter, June Delight was a picture to delight the eye and her dancing had an ineffable grace. In her old-fashioned polka she might have been a Dresden figurine come to life; her modern waltz was equally pictorial in a more sophisticated mood. Her contact with earth seemed tenuous, as she drifted over the stage like a breeze-tossed flower.

A charming toe-dance by Dorothy Nixon; two solo numbers by Eileen McElroy, a tarantella and an Irish jig; and a classical waltz by Rose Funchess were other notable numbers. A brisk and perfect Highland Fling by Billy Pat Torras and June Delight Canoles, small daughter of June Delight, stopped the show and was repeated after insistent applause. Two other highly pictorial events were a piccolino by Marjorie Evans and Carol Canoles and a Russian dance by Madelaine McDonagh and Carol Canoles. Carol and June Delight Canoles both show more than a trace of their mother's distinctive grace and light assurance in the dance. A "jump-rope" dance by Leona Ramsey and Elaine McIntire included some good acrobatic figures.

The dancing of the tiniest tots evoked admiration and amusement, as they tap-danced like little majors, going through fairly complicated steps with the greatest aplomb and an appealing lack of unanimity. Older girls, in various groupings, performed a number of pretty dances. At the conclusion of the program big pupils and little ones did an effective ensemble tap dance.

In addition to those presenting solo and duo numbers, the pupils included: Yvonne Welsh, Laurel Bixler, La Verne De Amaral, Ruth Funchess, Dorothy Black, Elinor Smith, Zada Martin, Jean Turner, Ellen Pearl McGrury, Gwen Reed, Carol Classic, Alice Creighton, Jack Creighton, Pat Foster, Mary Agnes Fortier, Stanley Bruce Douglas, Cynthia Ann Gilbert, Betty Ryland, Peggy Heebner, Barbara Mylar, Barbara Moriarty, Jane Emmons, Jean Getz, Joyce Davis, Jean Turner, Barbara Foster, Carol Jean Elliott, Mildred Jones, Catherine Nichols, Gloria Hellam, Monty Hellam, Beverly Leidig, Patty Ann Ryland, Eleanor Hart, Muriel McPhillips, Jourdine Lyon, Marie Partridge and Betty Reynolds.

Favorite Authors Found In Survey

A survey to determine who are the favorite authors of the subscribers to the short story magazine Story has just been concluded, and the announced in the June issue. The favorite author of Story subscribers is Willa Cather with Pearl Buck second, John Galsworthy third and Ellen Glasgow fourth. Every fourth person on the subscriber rolls to the magazine was sent a questionnaire from which the popularity total was computed. Sinclair Lewis was fifth, Sigrid Undset sixth, William Shakespeare seventh, Dorothy Parker eighth, Dorothy Canfield ninth, Mark Twain tenth, and Charles Dickens eleventh. The favorite modern poet was Edna St. Vincent Millay. The favorite short story writer of the younger generation was William Saroyan. Clarence Day was preferred over P. G. Wodehouse. Ernest Hemingway and Thomas Wolfe were neck and neck, with Hemingway only a six-vote lead ahead of Wolfe.

RUSTICITY AND SIDEWALKS

In seeking some workable compromise between unaffected rusticity and a modicum of comfort—remembering that not all our residents are young and nimble-footed—we must recognize that both our roads and our pedestrian paths leave much to be desired. Carmel has definitely rejected the rigidity of concrete, at least outside the business district. If the compromise spirit had been active in earlier days, the far-famed battle over the paving of Ocean and Dolores might have resulted in equally effective and less commonplace "improvements."

Before a reaction sets in against too rampant forms of rusticity, such as roads deep-channelled by winter rains, ankle-deep in summer dust, and pedestrian paths which can so be called by courtesy only, it will be well to think about what can be done for our traffic arteries.

An expensive, blanket program of street-improvement would find no support here. Good results could be achieved more slowly through a "unit" oiling program, worked out a few blocks at a time. Property owners in any one block can take the initiative by putting up $2 a lot to pay for the oiling, and the street department will do the work.

There are too many automobiles about these days to make it either pleasant or practicable to use the roads for pedestrian traffic. Much of the pleasure of walking in this lovely village is blocked by the impassable condition of the roadsides and the flow of motor traffic in the roads themselves.

Property owners must petition the council for permission to build sidewalks, but it is hardly conceivable that such permission would be refused if plans were presented for sidewalks that would enhance the natural beauty of the village. Several different styles suggest themselves according to the character of the neighborhood and the contour of the streets. Chalk-rock walks are widely used in our gardens, and are most effective. Some experiments have been made with narrow brick-paved pathways, which have an admirable flexibility in detouring for trees, shrubs, and other natural obstructions. There are still vestiges of oiled pathways in some of the older parts of town, and these, properly kept up, are very satisfactory. It is possible that some system could be worked out whereby the street department would oil pathways as well as roads, at the expense of the property owners.

Of course, all this involves a type of cooperative effort that perhaps cannot be hoped for in Carmel, where so many rugged individualists skulk behind their broom hedges and are sincerely indifferent to the struggles of pedestrians past their doors.

We are vaguely aware of such additional difficulties as streets where the official grade has not been established, where any interference with the natural vagaries of slope and hollow are at one's peril. All the more reason, it would seem, to seek for some informal style of pathway, requiring not too much leveling and grading.

But there are blocks where the contour is sufficiently regular to permit experiments, with results which might later be of value in a more comprehensive plan. If we wait too long and suddenly find ourselves a city so far as population figures are concerned, filled up with newcomers who have scant patience with the less comfortable features of rusticity, the "old Carmel" may go down for the third time, overwhelmed by pavement, concrete curbs, and uncompromising cement sidewalks.

Definition for "rugged individualism": Everybody plays the game according to his own set of rules.

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

A NEW international peace movement has been called to our attention; one which has a better chance of success and is less apt to arouse antagonism than most of those already in the field. It relies solely on the power of constructive thought, and no one can very well object to that, can they?

THE world has never experienced the power of organized thought, and one can only imagine what might be accomplished with everyone, or a predominant part of the people of the world, thinking for long enough in the same way. Whether you call it the Power of Prayer, or Holding the Right Thought, or meditation, or "affirmation" or just constructive thinking, there is a dynamic force here just waiting to be unleashed. Many people have experimented with it in their own lives, and know what positive results can be obtained. What could be accomplished by hordes of people employing the right sort of brain-waves, is almost beyond belief.

NOT because "thoughts are things;" tangible little bullets which can be sent to a definite objective. If that were true, it would be possible to destroy an adversary through the power of thought, and we know that cannot be done—unless he knows you are doing it and is susceptible to the power of suggestion. The effort to send out such thought only destroys the sender. No, the power of thought is in the change it works in the person employing it. That is why any consistent effort toward right thinking revolutionizes the person doing it, making changes in him which the world can see.

BUT you must come into court with clean hands. There must be no selfish objective behind your meditation, prayer, affirmation, or whatever you wish to call it. The finest way to use it is in an honest effort to make yourself a better person, a more effective world citizen. It can be done.

LET the Forces of Light bring illumination to mankind.
 Let the Spirit of Peace be spread abroad.
 May men of goodwill everywhere meet in a spirit of cooperation.
 May forgiveness on the part of all be the keynote at this time.
 May power attend the efforts of Christ and His Church."

THIS invocation is being used in churches and other group meetings, and by thousands of individuals all over the world, throughout the month of May. It is metaphysically sound. Read it over, study it, memorize it, and then say it over frequently with real good will behind it. If enough people thought that way, sincerely, there just wouldn't be any more war. And a lot of the other injustices and cruelties that some people think are such an ineradicable part of human nature would be wiped out the same way. It is a long process, but it is the only way the world can be lastingly improved. The sooner each of us sets our own mental house in order, the more swiftly will the Millennium come.

MASS MEETING TONIGHT

Judging from past public meetings in Carmel, tonight's mass meeting on the liquor question should provide plenty of interest and excitement. Probably as much anticipation centers in the expressions of some of Carmel's own well-known orators as in the address of Ray Riley, state controller, imported as the "keynote." The purpose of the meeting is to hear a thorough discussion of the present liquor control law with a view to a better understanding of what are the rights of the community. The secondary purpose of the gathering is to give Carmel citizens an opportunity to sound off on what they think of the present liquor situation in Carmel.

It is understood that the invitation to speak is extended to bona-fide Carmelites only; that is, people who are known to reside or have interests either in Carmel or its immediate vicinity. It may be idle rumor, but it has been reported during the past week that the "liquor interests" are planning to "pack the meeting" with paid orators from outside. As what is wanted is a sincere expression of opinion from Carmel people who are vitally affected by the local situation, such speakers, if such there be, will not find a hospitable atmosphere in which to exercise their talents.

It is not expected that the sentiment of the meeting will be unanimous, however. In order to permit as many people as possible to be heard after the main address, and to keep anyone from monopolizing the floor unduly, the three-minute rule for extemporaneous speakers will be strictly enforced.

FUN AT NIGHT

In one night during the past week, the police department answered fifteen different calls. Domestic disturbances, late partying, prowlers sociable rather than criminal in motive, none of these calls were traceable to anything serious, but they constitute considerable of a nuisance. Out of those fifteen calls, not a single criminal complaint was lodged. The Carmel policeman seems to be regarded more as a sort of super nursemaid than as an Arm of the Law.

If this sort of thing keeps up, we may have to listen to the appeals of the police department for more help. But it might be just as well to put an end to this sort of thing. That might be done by making nocturnal disturbances an unpopular form of amusement.

We all know that there are certain towns on California's major highways with a state-wide reputation as being "tough" on speeders, and we all crawl when we go through them. We may sniff at them as being blue-nosed in their attitude toward law-enforcement, but we recognize that they will tolerate no monkey business in that line.

It might be just as well if Carmel got a reputation—and with our own citizens as well as outsiders—for being a poor place in which to stage brawls. It might be highly salutary if husbands and wives choosing the wee small hours for their family arguments, and deciding to call in the cops to referee, were both booked on charges of disturbing the peace. The police complain that the ladies who send for the riot squad because they are being "beat up," are usually madder at the police next day, for "interfering" than they are at the errant spouse. They would probably be still madder if booked on a charge of disorderly conduct, but they might think twice next time before calling in outsiders in a moment of hysterical rage. A few more arrests, a few fines for disturbing the peace, would undoubtedly put an end to a good many unnecessary night calls.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McIndoe spent the week-end in San Francisco.

NEW WRINKLES IN BUILDING

In the course of our research on "new wrinkles in building" as they are becoming evident in Carmel, the new factories built, thousands of men and women employed, and prosperity.

most fascinating phase of all is the progress made in the science of air conditioning. As early as 1932 business experts were predicting that this new industry would give the same fillip to the economic system as manufacture of automobiles did in 1922, and as radios did between 1925 and 1929, and might conceivably be the key factor to prevent another depression. The obstacle, as always, in perfecting ideas as applicable to the pocket-book of the average consumer, was that air conditioning was all-fired expensive. Engineers had gone at the problem only as applied to large areas. To be sure, about three years ago equipment came on the market to condition one room by the so-called "unit" plants, but they were high in price and not too satisfactory in operation. In new homes of the luxury class it became possible to install plants which warmed and humidified the air in winter, cooled and dehydrated the air in summer, provided for "air flow", or proper ventilation with absence of draft, all the year around. But this meant little to the average home builder, nothing at all to the owner of a house already built, since it was not practicable to install the plants after construction.

Now has come the long-awaited triumph of engineering skill: the perfection of a small plant, which is compact and economical in its space demands, within the reach of and economical to operate. Best of the small home-owner's pocket-book, all, it can be installed not only in homes now being built, but in dwellings already occupied.

Air conditioning for large buildings has now reached a stage at which it may almost be termed an exact science. But air conditioning for large buildings can never offer the field for mass production required before the new industry can be said really to be doing the economic order any substantial good.

Air conditioning for homes, in short, was the next step to be taken. When every family wants an air conditioning plant, just as every family now wants an automobile, a radio, and an electric refrigerator, the result may well be plant extension or the perfection of a small plant, which is compact and economical in its space demands, within the reach of and economical to operate. Best of the small home-owner's pocket-book, all, it can be installed not only in homes now being built, but in dwellings already occupied.

It is a feather in Carmel's cap and a matter for justifiable local pride that it was John Neikirk, young engineer associated with Hugh Comstock, the builder, who ingeniously contrived the small, efficient plant to condition the whole house and has already installed a number, which are giving eminent satisfaction, in Carmel homes. So far as is known, no such plant is on the market elsewhere in the country. It was the very absence of any such plant, which could be purchased on the open market, which compelled Johnny Neikirk to set his wits to work in order to be able to supply a growing demand. The new product in turn brought about the organization of a new Carmel company, called Carmel Building Specialties, to manufacture and market the air conditioning plant, and to act as agent for a number of other new products which have marched into the building field hand in hand with the science of air conditioning.

In subsequent articles we will explain "Why Air Conditioning?" and something of the ways in which this new system of home heating and ventilation operates.

Owners In Middle-West Leave Home Building to Contractor Here

ON Carmelo near Ninth is being built a home for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph West, who were in Carmel most of the winter, but left for their home in Omaha immediately after completing building arrangements. They did not even wait to see the ground broken, and when they return next fall, they will find the finished product awaiting them. For the next few years the Wests expect to come here for winters, and eventually they will come here to live. They picked the lot for its view, and all they have asked in the way of a report of progress is that the builder, Hugh W. Comstock, will send them as soon as possible, a photograph of the scene from the western living room window, so that they can see if it is all they anticipated in planning the room.

This is an "upside down house," with the livingroom, kitchen and one bedroom upstairs, while the ground floor is occupied by one bedroom and

Women Voters League Executives Meet Today

The executive board of the Monterey County League of Women Voters is scheduled to hold its monthly meeting at 10 o'clock this morning at Mission Inn in Monterey. The only section meeting of next week will be that of government and its operation, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Mission Inn. Mrs. Carl Voss, county president, will discuss material presented at the national convention in Cleveland relative to "better personnel in government."

This is to be a "Monterey type" house, with the adaptation of corner windows to open vistas to the sea. The long balcony across the front emphasizes the early California motif, as does the crude knotty-pine cabinet work in the kitchen. The master bedroom and livingroom both open to the front balcony with its eastern sun and there is a balcony at the rear as well.

Writers Project Going High Speed

At the rate of about 25 manuscripts a week, "copy" is flowing in a smooth stream from the Federal Writers project of Monterey county, with headquarters at Beacon House in Monterey, to San Francisco headquarters. Dr. F. W. Haasis of Carmel is supervisor of the project. Some 300 manuscripts have gone to San Francisco since the first of the year, there to be condensed for a California guide, and further compressed to go into the mammoth American Guide which writers' projects all over the country are creating.

At the same time Dr. Haasis is carrying on as a separate project the Historical Records Survey, which will result in a quick reference index to all county and regional documents. Three editors, two field workers and one typist are working on this project, while the writers' project now has seven editors, one secretary, seven field workers and three typists in addition to the supervisor. The field workers have worked out accounts of a number of interesting Monterey county automobile tours, which call attention to points of historic interest and scenic beauty. This in addition to complete surveys of the history and development of this region.

The Beacon House is a busy place, with typewriters clicking, workers coming and going, desks heaped high with papers, and completely innocent of facilities for the filing of manuscripts and correspondence.

Weekly Concerts By Federal Music Project

A delightful morning hour which has come into being through the Federal Music Project, WPA, is the weekly open-air concert which Dene Denny, supervisor of the project, has arranged for every Thursday morning from 11 to 12 o'clock. This week's concert was in the city park, and next Thursday the concert will be in the Customs House plaza, Monterey. Music will be played by the band ensemble, under the direction of Bernard Callery, assistant supervisor, by the chorus, directed by Dene Denny, and by the Tipica orchestra, which is directed by Manuel Serrano, one of the players on the project.
